PRINTING Neatly Executed at this Office.

Communicated for the Baltimore Chronicle. From South America.

General Deyereux, with his staff and suite, arrived at Baranquilla on the 3d of August. On the 10th he despatched Col. Hall and Major Bennett, aids-de-camp attached to his staff, with letters for the president at Cucuta—these officers met his excellency at Monpox. He received them with the greatest politeness, and invited them to accompany him back to Baranquilla, where he arrived on the 23d inst. and the enthusiastic rejoicings of all ranks and descriptions of the inhabitants, whose blessings and acclamations had attended him through every part of his journey down the Magdalena. On his meeting General Deyereux, he embraced him in his arms, and expressed in the warmest terms, his high sense of the General's exertions in the cause of the republic. Exertions, he observed, which had been equalled by no single individual! He said he had known adversity, and disclaimed the idea of considering the General less for the defection of a part of his legion, and invited him with the few men still remaining, to join the main army at Cucuta, and lead the division of his legion, which had arrived on the Apura, by way of the Orinoco.

The general's guard of officers and soldiers formed a guard of honor for the President, during his stay at Baranquilla—he quitted it on the 24th for Turbaco, to inspect the blockading squadron of Cartagena, and is expected to return before the expedition sails from Baranquilla, against Santa Martha.

All the promotions the general thought proper to make since his arrival, were confirmed by the president. The cadets of his guards, which principally formed the guard of honor to his excellency, were all promoted to the rank of cornets. The guard was commanded by cornet O'Connor, who was promoted to the rank of lieutenant—this young man, we understand to be the son of the celebrated Irish patriot of that name.

Letters from China, say, that British manufactures are getting into high fashion and demand in that Empire; and some American houses are coming in for a share of gain.

London, Aug 29.

A schism of considerable extent appears to have taken place among the Methodists in the northern counties, as well as in the south, owing principally to the folly of some of their preachers, in interfering with the political opinions of the people. This began about the latter end of last year, when their committee of privileges in London, in concert with his majesty's government issued circulars to the different preachers in the connection, in all parts of the country, to discountenance amongst their people all those who might be attached to political reform. Immediately the methodist pulpits every where resounded with the murderous doctrines of passive obedience and non-resistance—those doctrines which in England brought one tyrant to the block, and obliged another to abdicate the throne. In consequence of which added to the tyranny of the preachers and their exorbitant exactions from the people, few of whom are opulent, great numbers have separated from the body, & formed a new community, under the denomination of "Independent Methodists," maintaining the same discipline, but differing in church government; as their preachers, like the primitive teachers of Christianity, claim no pecuniary reward for their labours. In Shields, Newcastle and their vicinities, they are rapidly increasing, and have already 14 chapels and places of public worship, which are supplied by 21 preachers.

Durham Chron. The Rev. Henry Heap, the present vicar of Bradford, in Yorkshire, upon entering on his living, sent word to all his parishioners who are quakers that he should never enforce his tithes from them, adding that "what they could not conscientiously pay, he could not conscientiously receive."

From the Aurora.

MR. GUILLE'S ASCENSION.

I started at 5 o'clock, and 35 minutes, on Saturday afternoon, the 14th of October. By some mistake, and many people interfering to assist me in ascending the balloon lost a considerable quantity of the gaz. In less than five minutes I ascended to the distance of 1000 feet, when the earth disappeared to my view, there was not a sufficiency of distance between my situation and the earth, that to disengage myself from the balloon would have been attended with great danger. In this situation, when I could not see any part of the earth, I remained about 30 minutes, and when I was transferred to a clear region, and had the advantage of the sun, which made the earth appear to me to be covered with snow—from thence I entered into another region of clouds, much darker than the former ones, and having no valve to my balloon, I was obliged to ascend much higher than I would otherwise have done. In this situation when I ascended about 35,000 feet, according to the calculation I made, with the help of a barometer, which I had with me, the air was so obscure, that I could neither see the balloon nor parachute, and owing to the great cold I experienced, and also the fatigues, I fell asleep and slept for some time. I would still have continued to ascend, had it not been for the wet state of the balloon, which made it very heavy, and this I attribute as the cause why my descent was sooner than I expected.

A singular circumstance, and which I have never experienced, happened to me in my descent; during the time I remained surrounded by clouds, I attribute this to the atmosphere being generally covered with clouds, and I believe that a communication in the air will sooner communicate it to a dark than a clear atmosphere. When I first discovered the earth, I descended so rapidly, owing to the balloon being so heavy, that my parachute opened itself. When I got to the ground, in an open field, and having no grappling irons, I was dragged about the distance of Market street, until the balloon was arrested in its course by a forest, where, with the assistance of some persons I was able to get out of my basket and secure the balloon. Mr. Ralph H. Smith, to whom I herewith offer my sincerest thanks, was kind enough to accompany me to Trenton, where we arrived at 8 o'clock, P. M.

CHARLES GUILLE, October 16, 1820.

Extraordinary Circumstance.—Had we not received the following extraordinary circumstance from the best authority, we should certainly withhold our belief. Yesterday at the suit of the landlord, the sheriff took possession of a house in Cresson's Alley, the tenant being absent at Baltimore—to the astonishment on entering the chamber, they found a box, near his bedstead, on opening which they discovered the remains of his wife who died about 5 years ago; and on further search in the garret, a coffin was found containing the ashes of his child, which had died about three years ago.

They were immediately interred. The officers and neighbors can conceive no possible motive for this act of infatuation and folly:—and what renders it truly astonishing that he should thus preserve the remains of his wife is, that since her death he has married a second wife.—Phil. Gaz.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

Chillicothe, (Ohio) Sep. 30.

On Thursday evening last, a fire broke out in the factory owned by Mr. David M. Comb, on paint creek, in this vicinity, which, we are sorry to say, has laid in ruins this valuable establishment. All the necessary machinery for carding and spinning cotton and wool; weaving, fulling, dyeing, together with a grist mill, have been destroyed. Through the exertions of the Fire Company and some other citizens, the two main water wheels, drawing head, roving frames, cards, and other articles, valued in all at $1000, were preserved. The whole loss is estimated at fifteen thousand dollars.

Fears are entertained that Mr. Timothy Pickering, the fuller employed in the factory, has perished in the flames as he has not been heard of since the fire, and the last time he was seen, was entering the factory for the purpose of endeavoring to save property.

Extract of a letter from Savannah, dated September 23.

"It is with much pain I inform you that Mr. Harrison is no more—he expired last night about 10 o'clock, and we buried him at 11 this day; he had the black vomit. The sickness here for the last month has amounted to almost a plague. We have lost one very valuable physician, Dr. Berrien—he died on Wednesday morning last; he bid fair to be an ornament to his country; he died in a good cause—exerted himself in attending the sick beyond what his constitution would bear.—His mother-in-law, Mrs. Delony, died about 30 hours before him, in the next room. You cannot conceive the distress Mrs. B. was in, just up from a sick bed, with an infant not yet a month old, and to lose a mother in four days and a husband in five days sickness, was truly an affliction.

We have lost many, very many, valuable citizens, and young men, who bid fair to become ornaments to society.

Our city has become almost totally deserted. There is not probably more than one thousand white inhabitants here; and yet the number of deaths for the last few days have been from 10 to 12 a day.—The deaths amongst the whites, from 1st to 22d inclusive, have been 166—which for our small population, you must immediately perceive is enormous.

Two of our physicians have already left us, and one or two others are talking of going. Mr. Arbel, the music master, a man much esteemed here, died to-day. The fever carries them off in from three to six days sickness, and there has been scarcely one cure effected in these violent cases. Dr. Kollock informed me last evening, that he had spent 29 years here, and says he could not possibly have imagined such fevers could have existed in any country.

FROM SPAIN—INTERESTING.

A friend has favored us with the following extract of a letter from an observant and intelligent correspondent in Cadiz, in the correctness of whose information implicit reliance may be placed.

CADIZ, Aug. 26.

"I have never beheld greater inquietude and more painful apprehensions for the fate of a revolution than is exhibited by the people of this place. They have lost almost all confidence in the measures of the cortes, who, they say, have yet done nothing; meantime the King and his ministers issue orders that create the strongest doubts of the integrity of their intentions. Riego has been ordered to move his army from the Isla to another station, and other troops has been ordered to replace him. Twice he has refused to obey the order, and the people here implore him to persist in the resolution. The troops ordered in his stead are known to be commanded by officers inimical to the new system, and partisans of Freyre, Campana, and other other devils incarnate, of the fatal 10th of March, who have yet suffered nothing for their hellish barbarity; and for which the people cry aloud to justice and vengeance. Even the women of Cadiz swear they will defend the gates against the entrance of the troops destined to garrison it, and every day placards appear in all the public places instigating a corresponding feeling in all classes. Riego is surrounded when he appears in public, with the filial cry, "Dont leave us, for God's sake." His own feelings, and those of his compatriots and soldiers, are in unison with the people, nor does he think patriotism forbids the course he has taken, though it would appear to be in hostility of the sovereign of the government. But the assassins of the 10th of March yet live with impunity. Cadiz cries aloud for protection—the cortes have yet fulfilled none of the engagements with the liberating army—the orders of the ministers of war have a most suspicious feature of the counter revolutionary project, and the army of the Isla, conscious of their strength in the affection of the people, have dared to resist the official mandate. A painful interregnum thus created in the affairs of Spain, and who will yield, the government or Riego is a question of difficult solution.

"In Salaga a similar feeling exists in consequence of an order for the change of the garrison there, and the people threaten to interpose to prevent its execution. In this dilemma the minister of war has signed.

"Although the monopoly of tobacco is still declared to exist, there is no article more publicly exposed for sale in this place, and the authorities find it impossible to prevent it; one of the many melancholy proofs every day visible in Spain since the adoption of the constitution, is the interpretation given to it by ninetenths of the nation, is perfect liberty; that is, the liberty of every man's doing as he pleases. Out of this anarchy, it is much feared the horrors of a revolution are yet to come. Be assured it is very far from being complete, and that Spain, at this moment, it as much in the enjoyment of the old system as the new. Such is the deplorable state of the parties in the country—But a little time must determine.

"Three deputies for Venezuela have sailed; the others are here."

The greatest point of his elevation Mr. G. estimates at 35,000 feet. He was considerably overcome with cold and a disposition to sleep.

Pennsylvania Election.—The election took place in this state for Governor, Representatives to Congress, and members of the state Legislature on the 10th inst.—

The great contest was for governor, between William Findlay, the present incumbent, and Gen. Joseph Hiester, at this time a member of Congress. From the returns received, there is no doubt but Hiester is elected by about 3,000 majority. The advocates for Hiester consisted of the federal party, William Duane and John Binns, whose talents were exerted to the utmost to effect their purpose.

The result of this election has shewn completely, the degree of principle possessed by the federal party in Pennsylvania. On the mind of every disinterested person who was acquainted with the sentiments generally expressed by the federal party in that state six or seven years ago, the effect must be the same. At that time every opprobrious epithet was bestowed by them upon John Binns and William Duane. The greatest objection they had against the administration of Simon Snyder was, that he suffered himself to be controlled, and dictated to, by John Binns. A number of unpopular appointments to office in the city of Philadelphia were imputed to him; for instance, Mathew Randall as Recorder. At that time the principal weapon in the hands of the federalists to depress the republican party was, the disgrace to the state; of having a man like John Binns, whom they terms? a renegade Irishman, to lead the party? and have sufficient influence to erect the appointment to office of men who were disposed to enter into all his views. The republicans were sensible at the time, of the injury their cause was sustaining by such men; but the great difficulty was to check their influence, and no opportunity offered until Simon Snyder's term expired. Two candidates were then offered, William Findlay and Nathaniel B. Boileau. In order to effect the object mentioned in the preceding sentence, the former was taken up in preference to the latter for the following reasons: that the influence of John Binns in the government of the state would cease in a great measure, or altogether, and by selecting Boileau, it would be in all probability, continued. The Democratic Press made several efforts in his favor; on finding that the current was too strong against him, Mr. Binns finally came out in favor of William Findlay, and strained every nerve to procure this election.—Mr. Binns, presuming too much on the governor for himself and friends, met with a disappointment, from which originated the charges against Mr. Findlay last winter, and which occupied so great a portion of the time of the legislature.

The Elephant which fell through the bridge over the Connecticut river at Westmoreland, died about a week after the fall. It was then ascertained that his bones had been shockingly broken. The skin, says the Vermont Yeoman, weighed eleven hundred pounds, and was, in some places, four inches thick!

Delaware Election.—Mr. Collins, the republican candidate, is elected Governor of Delaware, by a majority of about 400 votes; and C. A. Rodney, republican, and Mr. M'Lane, federalist, are elected representatives to Congress. Mr. M'Lane voted for the admission of Missouri without restriction, contrary to the instructions of his constituents; but it seems the sin was not deemed unpardonable!

An extraordinary large Beet was dug from the garden of John D. Scott, in this village. It is the common winter Beet, and weighs 17 lbs. and a half, and measures 24 inches in circumference.—This is the largest beet we have ever heard of, of this species. Mr. Scott says there was another which grew in the same bed, which from its size, supposed would weigh twelve pounds.

"The wonder, or a woman keeps a secret."

A certain married man of —, a carpenter by trade, in the year 1817, left his family, and took off with him a female, 19 years of age. She then attired herself in boy's clothes, and passed and acted as his apprentice, working with a plane, saw or hammer, in a very ingenious manner. About 18 months past they came to —, and have resided there ever since till within a few days. The girl was so discreet in her deportment and conduct, as never once to be suspected, and so active and ingenious a mechanic, as to equal any one of the craft—a master workman informed me he had worked with her at shingling the roof of a house, and at making window sashes, and she was equal to himself. On the Sabbath she regularly attended divine service, dressed in neat boy's attire and was noted by the females of the neighborhood, as the handsome carpenter's boy. She would often jest with and about the girls, with as much freedom as any of her mates. For three years the deception was never detected. The wife lately petitioned for a divorce, and in her evidence, described the girl her husband went off with; which description, so much agreeing with the boy's appearance suspicion was for the first time excited and the truth discovered. She was newly dressed, and again passed through the crowd as a handsome girl. She was then sent home to her parents and the fellow made off.

Address of the Convention.

To the Republican Electors of New Jersey.

FELLOW-CITIZENS;

By virtue of an authority derived from yourselves and in conformity to your wishes, the Republican Convention assembled at the Capital of the State on the day appointed for their meeting, for the purpose of performing the duties confided to them. Deeply sensible of the importance of these duties, we have endeavored to execute them with fidelity and impartiality. We have selected for Representatives to Congress, candidates whom we believe to be respectable for talents, of unexceptionable characters, and of sound political principles. For Electors we have also selected Candidates in whose political principles we have entire confidence, and such as we doubt not will give their suffrages for the distinguished citizens who now hold the offices of President and Vice-President of the United States. In making these selections we have, as the means of preserving union and harmony in the Republican ranks, endeavored to keep in view the just claims of every part of the State. This you are well aware is a task of no ordinary difficulty. To meet the views and to gratify the wishes of all must necessarily be impossible. A partial sacrifice of interest and of feeling among political brethren is frequently necessary to the salvation of their cause, and if on the present occasion, such sacrifice should become necessary, we rely on your good sense, magnanimity and patriotism, and behold in them sure pledges that the sacrifice will be made. In Union consists strength; and upon the preservation of Union depends the proud ascendancy of Republicanism in New Jersey. You have strength amply sufficient to prevail—fail not to exert it! A great majority, if not active and awake, may be vanquished by a watchful and persevering minority—and a false security is often the harbinger of defeat.

We conceive union and exertion to be of the utmost importance on our part, and confidently believe that the selection we have made will meet your approbation and support.

Firmly attached as you are to the principles of Republicanism, and resolutely determined to maintain them, an elaborate address cannot be necessary to stimulate you to exertion; and suffice it to say, New Jersey expects that every Republican will be found at his post at the Election to be held on the 7th and 8th days of November next.

By order of the Convention,
JOSEPH BUDD, Chairman.
JOSEPH BONNELL, Secretary.
