AGRICULTURAL.

A new method of heading cabbages in the winter.

Last fall, at the usual time of taking in Cabages, I had a number well grown but which had no appearance of a head I dug a trench on the southern declivity of a hill, about 18 inches wide and 20 or 22 inches deep, and took 86 cabbages of the above description, and set them out in the bottom, of the trench in their natural position, with the roots well covered with sand: I then filled the trench with straw on each side of the cabbages, and completed the work by throwing on more straw and forming a ridge of sand over the whole to keep out frost and water. In the latter part of March I opened the trench and took out the cabbages, and found each one with a common sized head, white, solid, and well tasted.

From the Boston Centinel. PRESERVATIVE OF POTATOES.

Mr Russel-In a communication in your last paper I called the attention of farmers to the harvesting of beans, onions and potatoes. I now recommend to them a specific, which will prevent potatoes from sweating, when they are stored in the cellar for domes tic use, or during long voyages. This subject is the more worthy of attention from the known fact, that even if gathered in dry weather, they always have a sweat, if they lie in large quantities in the cellar; and when they come from the Eastward by water, they have a second sweat, which makes them almost unfit to be eaten.

To prevent this sweat I tried the following experiment, and found it a complete preventive. Having placed my potatoes in tierces and barrels in cellar, I covered them with un slacked lime. As the steam rose from them, 'it slackened the lime by degrees; and when slacked, the lime settled down among the potatoes and dried up the moisture, and made them more mealy and better than they were before. For long voyages lime casks had better be used to carry the potatoes, and lime may be mixed with them to take up the muisture. IF unslacked lime cannot be procured, slacked lime will partially answer the purpose.

The Farmers' Friend.

FATTING CATTLE. I have lately read an essay of Mr Lancon, of Connecticut, on what he deems the cheapest method of preparing cattle for the stall, the substance of which is here given. In the winter of 1817, Mr. L. fatted an ox, and a heifer, in a way that he found cheaper than common feeding.-He fatted the heifer first. Her food for the purpose was chopped straw, scalded and seasoned with salt, to which was added a little meal of Indian corn and oats, and a small allowance of oil cake, or boiled flaxseed—the whole mixed up so as to form a mush. of this about three pecks was given at a time. In fatting the heifer, she only eat a bushel of boiled flax-seed. Some boiled hay was also given her—The ox was afterwards latted in pretty much the same manner. According to this account, it appears that his profits in pursuing this mode were very uncom-mon, and he says that the fatting of these cattle afforded him more clear profit than he had derived from all the cattle he had ever before fatted.

It is asserted that the dropsy may be coved by drinking for a considerable time, the juice of the blackberry

Reward of genius In the 38th volume (year 1821) of the transactions of the London society for the encouragement of the arts, &c. the following premiums are awarded to our country man, Jacob Perkins, viz.

For his method of warming and ventilating rooms, and of ventilating the holds of ships, the largest silver medal.

For an improved ship's pump, the large gold medal.

For a method of freeing water wheels from back water, the small or vulcan gold medal.

These instances seem to correct the reiterated complaints, that the English are unwilling to acknowledge the talents and merits of our countrymen but on the contrary unjustly take the credit to themselves of our useful inventions and improvements. Salem Gazette.

Females raffled for-Be it known that six fair and pretty young ladies, with two sweet and engaging children. lately imported from Europe, having the roses of health blooming on their cheeks, and joy sparkling in their eyes, possessing amiable tempers, and highy accomplished, whom the most indifferent: cannot behold without expres sions of rapture, are to be raffled for next door to the British Gallery.-Scheme, twelve tickets, 12 rupees each, the highest of the three throws, doubtless takes the most facinating.— Calcutta Daily Adv. Sept. 8, 1818.

On Sunday last a woman, whose name we at present forbear to mention, quitted her apartment, leaving a young child asleep in the cradle; during the absence of its mother the child awoke, and when the unnatural creature returned was crying violently. Without any attempt to appease it, the wretch exclaimed—" By G— you shall never cry any more!" tied a handkerchief round the neck of the little innocent, and suspended it from a beam or nail in the room. Her husband just at that moment returned, and cut down the child barely in time to save its life.

Pirates continue to interrupt our commerce and butcher our seamen.— We have an account of an action between the American brig Patriot and a piratical schooner off cape Antonio, during which the American captain and his second mate were killed, and 2 men and the first mate wounded. Out of 45 of the pirates only 7 survived the action, which lasted 50 minutes.

A part of them are now at Crab Island, but the Governor has repaired to the cuast opposite, with a force too formidable for these desperadoes to make any attempt.

The number of privateers out of this place are, two brigs, five schooners, and ketch, part of which have sailed the Mona Passage, and to cruize off St. Thomas. N. Y. Gaz.

One of the Boston papers contains a letter from a gentleman of that city, at Rio Janeiro, who communicates the following interesting particulars of Brazilian affairs.

"The elections have already taken place in many of the provinces, for the choice of electors, who are to meet at this place to appoint the representatives for the new Congress. Their plan is to have only one House for the present, which is to meet here.

"The press here is as free as in the United States. When the King was here we had but one newspaper, and that was of a very small size, and was printed twice a week, giving us only his decrees, without any foreign news; now we have 12 papers; most of them are published daily, giving us the news of all countries, and free discussions on all subjects. The Prince has become very plain in his dress, economical in his expenses, and familiar in his ad-dress and conversation. His expenses are not a twentieth parf of the expenses of former years. His ministers are all of the same character.

"The prime minister, Jose Bonefacio de Andradare Silva, is a second Franklin. He is about 45 years old, is much beloved by all the Brazilians and for-eigners. He was born in the province of St. Pau's but has spent many years n different parts of Europe. For seval years he has lived a retired life, ot the period has arrived which called r the exercise of his talents, and in January last he was placed in the highest station his country can offer. He has great opposition to encounter from the royal party, which was, & even still is, of considerable strength.

" We are now allowed in cases of libel, and in criminal cases, the trial by jury. The first trial by jury on this southern continent took place here last week. It was a charge against the editor of one of the Gazettes for a libel on the Prince, questioning his authority. He was tried by a regular jury, and was honourably aquitted. The accused was allowed to choose eight persons for his jury, from twenty-four named by the government. It was a new thing to most persons here. We expect when the congress meets that the first business will be to send ambassadors to foreign nations, and, one of the first measures will be to put an entire stop to the slave trade. I think we may rely on this being done yery soon. God forbid it should not be. In the year 1821, 45,507 slaves were embarked in Africa on board ships owned in this place, of whom $8,102 arrived alive. The number imported at the other ports is immense.

SUMMARY.

It affords us much satisfaction to state the body of Mr. Winsor, lately drowned in the Delaware, was found floating on the surface of the water, near Thompson's Point, a few days since. All the money said to have been in the pocket of the deceased, was found uninjured. The body was removed to his late residence at Carpenter Carpenter's Bridge, from whence it was attended by a large concource of relatives and friends to a place of interment. Woodbury Herald.

A very important discovery has been lately made by a gentleman near the city of Dubling Ireland. It is the method of cultivating grapes, by which the inhabitants of that Island can have them, in the greatest abundance and to as great an extent as in any of the southern climates. But this discovery is not confined to grapes. It is applied to all kinds of fruit, native as well as exotic, and to most of the productions of the vegetable world, whereby their quantity and quality may be encreased to an incredible extent. This discovery is the result of repeated experiments, all of which have proved eminently successful. From this discovery great benefits, it is expected, will result to the government, the commercial and the agricultural classes. From vines which in former years in their best produce, yielded only SSIbs. 1202. he obtained by his new management 116lbs. 12oz. grapes of an unequalled description for size and flavour, and 14lbs. 6oz. of inferior size. ### Obituary Register.

Departed this life, on the the 17th inst. at s residence in Bridgeton, the Rev. JONA. THAN FREEMAN, pastor of the Presbyterian church in this town. The removal of this faithful servant of Christ, has excited a painful interest in many hearts. His late charge, consisting of the united congregations of Bridgeton and Greenwich, are bereaved of one, who for the space of 17 years had laboured with fidelity and ardour among them as their spiritual guide. His partner in life and his numerous family and friends, have for a season been thus separated from a dear and interesting member of their circie. #### THE FELON.

Oh, mark his wan and hollow cheek! Ind mark his eye-balls glare, And mark his teeth, in anguish clench'd The anguish of despair! Know, since three days, his penance borne, You felon left a jail, And since three days no food has pass'd Those lips so parched and pale.

Where shall I turn? the wretch exclaims; Where hide my shameful head? How fly from scorn? Oh! how contrive, To earn my honest bread? This branded hand would gladly toil; But when for work I pray, Who sees this mark, 'A Felon !' cries, And loathing, turns away.

This heart has greatly err'd, but now Would fain revert to good; This hand has deeply sinn'd, but yet, Has ne'er been stain'd with blood, For work or alms, in vain I sue; The scorners both deny : I storve, I starve—then what remains? This choice ; to sin, or dic.

Here Virtue spurns me with disdain: There Pleasure spreads her snare-Strong habit draws me back to vice, And urg'd by fierce Despair, Lstrive while hunger gnaws my heart To fly from shame in vain !-World ! 'tis thy cruet will! I yield, And plunge in guilt again.

'There's mercy in each ray of light, That mortal' eyes e'er saw, There's Mercy in each breath of air That mortal lips e'er draw-There's Mercy for each bird and bear In God's indulgent plan-There's Mercy for each creeping thing-But MAN HAS NONE FOR MAN!

"e proudly honest! when ye heard - My wounded conscience groan; Had generous hand or feeling heart, One glimpse of Mercy shown-That act had made from burning eves Sweet tears of virtue roll, Had fix'd my heart,' assured my faith, And heaven had gain'd a, soul."

> From the German, by Gorthe. THE FISHER.

In gurgling eddies roll'd the tide, The wily angler sat In verdant, willow'd bank beside, And spread the treacherous bait, Reclin'd he sat in careless mood, The floating quill he eyed;-When, raising from the opening flood, A humid maid he spied.

She sweetly sang, she sweetly said, As gazed the wond'ring swain Why thus with murd'rous arts invade My placid, harmless reign? Ah, didst thou know, how blest, how free, The finny myriads strap, Thou'st long to dive the limpid sea, And live as blest as they.

The sun, the lovely queen of night, Beneath the deep repair; And thence in streamy lustre bright, Return more fresh and fair. Tempts thee not yon atherial space, Betinged with liquid hue?-Nor tempts thee there thy pictured face, To bathe in worlds of dew?

The tide in gurgling eddies rose, It reach'd his trembling feet: His heart with fond impatience glows The promis'd joys to meet. So sang the soft, the winning fair: Alas ! ill fated swain !-Half drag d half pleased, he sinks with her And ne'er was seen again!

The Hopeful Youth.

A man-who saw his son, quite handy, Toss off a glass of strong French brandy, "Neddy," cried he, "ah, don't do so, For liquor is our greatest foe." "But we are taught to love our fees," Quoth Ned, "so, father, here it goes."

Come, my old friends, and take a pot; But mark now, what I say; While drinking to thy neighbor's health, Drink not thine own away. It but too often is the case, While we sit o'er the pot, And kindly wish our friend good health, Our own is quite forgot. LIFE.

Our life contains a thousand springs, And dies if one be gone ! Strange that a harp of thousand strings should keep in tune so long.

Sad News for the Fair .- By the late there are 294,088 females more than males-in Wales, 16,464-in Scotland 126,852-making a total in Great Brit ain of 454,904-almost half a million ladies fair, doomed by the unlucky which is rendered worse by the notice to the creditors of said decedents waste occasioned by at least 150,000 to bring in their respective claims, duinflexible bachelors. How it is in Irely attested on or before the first dag of land, we have no means of ascertaining ; but we hope affairs are more pros:

Elephants.—A gentleman from In: dia assures us that he has seen elephants employed to pile wuod, and back and placed themselves in a situation to see if they have kept a perpendicular line and preserved a just level in their work, and have then corrected any perceptible defect in one or the other. The same person has seen two elephants employed to roll barrels to a distance, one has kept them in motion while the other has been prepared with a stone in his trunk to stop their progress at the required spot! The citizens of New York, it is said! require five millions of gallons of water daily for objects of health arid cleanliness.

The Retort Courteous.—A member of one of the Learned Professions was driving his gennet along the road at Tooting in Surrey, when lie overtook a pedlar with his pack, and enquired what he had to sell. The inan produced, among other things, a pair of cotton braces; they were six pence, he said. The gentleman paid the money, and then said You have I suppose a licence.'—'Yes,' was the reply, hesitatingly. I should like to see it.' After some together delay it was produced. 'My good fellow, all is sight I see. Now, as I do not want these things, you may have them again for three pence. Thebargain was struck; but how surprised was the querist, to find a summons to attend the county magistracy sitting at Croydon. The gentleman was convicted in the full penalty, tor selling goods on the King's nighway without a hawker's license. He is a lawyer. Morn. Post.

Among the trying verations of human life may be ranked that of being obliged to do business with your face bound up, on account of the tooth-ache, and being asked everp five minutes, pray sir, what ails your face?

A broken winded horse had been kept in a field where there was no water, except in the bottom of an old lime kiln, and had recovered his wind-the owner ordered a stable shovel full of quick lime to be renewed every five or ix days, and the water to be poured off, arid a bucket to be given every day to a broken winded coach horse, age Syears, which had almost a constant cough. The horse was supplied with water thus prepared for about five weeks, and kept in the stable. He is now perfectly recovered in his wind, and free from cough.

A substitute for ringing swine is re. commended by a writer in the American Farmer. It consists simply in shaving off with 3 razor the gristle on the top of the noses of young pigs.—

The place soon heals and the pigs are thus rendered incapable of rooting.
